

ADVERTISEMENT

JENNIFER GOULD KEIL

REAL ESTATE GIMME SHELTER

Mark Ronson plans to drop millions on NYC pied-a-terre

By Jennifer Gould Keil

February 6, 2019 | 6:33pm | Updated

This pad isn't uptown, but still brings the funk.
DBOX

Celebrity DJ/music producer Mark Ronson is looking for a New York pied-a-terre in the “$4 million to $6 million” range, sources tell Gimme Shelter.

Ronson certainly has a lot to celebrate. His song “Shallow,” with Lady Gaga and Bradley Cooper for their 2018 remake of “A Star is Born,” has already won best song at the Golden Globes and Critics’ Choice awards.

It’s also poised to win an Oscar for best original song.

Mark Ronson
Jordan Strauss/Invision/AP

Ronson — whose siblings are fashion designer Charlotte and DJ Samantha — recently expressed interest in a unit at 108 Leonard St., the luxury condo conversion in Tribeca.

The 2,018-square-foot, three-bedroom apartment Ronson liked — asking $4.85 million — comes with wide-plank gray oak floors in a chevron pattern.

It opens to an entry gallery with two closets, which leads to a great room with large windows and an open chef’s kitchen.

The master suite features a spa-like bathroom.

Building amenities include 20,000 square feet of “wellness” features, like a spa and a gym. Douglas Elliman has the listing.

FILED UNDER DJS, GIMME SHELTER, MARK RONSON, TRIBECA

Recommended by  | 